ABOUT

the sound moves slow, so it lasts.

Born and raised between Brooklyn and Queens, New York, on soul records and church harmonies, Mal Griot is a vocalist, spoken-word artist, and voice actor now based in India. His work moves across Afro-house, funk, and soul — low end that holds you, vocals that get close to the mic and stay there.

Most recently heard on breathe love d e e p, ten pieces about stillness, breath, and the space between one thought and the next, and on "I Tried It" alongside producer Unnayanaa on Wind Horse Records — a track Magnetic Magazine called a fusion of "house grooves and poetic storytelling."

Every performance is built to feel like an experience rather than a concert: transitions, lighting, atmosphere, and silence all matter as much as the notes.

"Create work that people return to years later."

LIVE

On stage

Solo, looped, or full-band — sets built for intimate rooms and festival stages alike, from Sofar Sounds showcases to club and gallery bills. Live looping, keys, and vocal FX build full arrangements in real time.

- Full-band or solo/looped set configurations
- DJ-adjacent live sets for club and festival slots
- Hosting / MC work for showcases and private events

VOICE ACTING

Behind the mic

A wide vocal range — falsetto to baritone — delivered in a warm, all-American accent. Work spans character voice acting, audiobook narration (including 25 distinct characters voiced for the audiobook Forget Me Not by JT Ezra), guided meditations, and commercial VO.

- Character & animation voice acting
- Audiobook and long-form narration
- Commercial, app, and guided-meditation VO
